RE: Docket 06-121, Media Ownership Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

I strongly oppose any action by the Federal Communications Commission to relax or eliminate media ownership limits.

Media consolidation is to blame for the decline in the quality and quantity of local news, the dearth of minority ownership in broadcasting, and the homogenization of programming on TV and radio. Allowing big media companies to own even more media outlets in our local communities will only exacerbate those problems.

Information -- from diverse, competitive and independent sources -- is vitally important to the health of our democracy. I urge you to hold the line against any further consolidation of our media, and to listen to the voices of the people -- not the media corporations -- on this critical issue.

Members of the Federal Communications Commission:

I am writing to express my strong disapproval of any relaxation or elimination of the public interest obligations on media ownership and any further media ownership concentration.

Limits on media consolidation have been a bulwark against the domination of economic power in the marketplace of ideas--a critical element to balancing the public service mission of the media with their private profit motive. Our democracy requires the free flow of information from a broad range of diverse voices.

Any public policy seeking to protect diversity in the media must recognize the simple fact that ownership matters. Media consolidation has already led to declines in local and minority ownership as well as the homogenization of content in radio and television. Permitting cross-ownership of newspapers and broadcast stations, or allowing further concentration in local television markets, will only worsen the problems we already have.

When the FCC attempted to weaken and remove media ownership limits in 2003, millions of Americans rose up to protect a most basic democratic principle, access to a range of views and information. Congress and the courts ultimately intervened to turn back that misguided regulatory process. The FCC should stand firm with the public against further concentration of media ownership in the hands of the few. A vote against media consolidation is a vote for democracy. Thank you.
